

We're In This Together

By

Kluane Takhini

Written by

Steve Sheppard

There can be no higher calling than to unite the peoples of this beautiful planet through artistic endeavours, bringing the world together through music, seems a familiar theme, and here on this brand new single by Kluane Takhini you have a truly eclectic mix of instrumentation, styles and musical journeys to make that happen.

This is one of those special musical creations that comes around every so often in the world, that manifests a feeling of not only a sense of oneness, but perhaps even a deeper thought of what we could all achieve if we put our minds to it.

This has been done splendidly by the artists whom appear on this latest offering, it is not only an anthem for peace and creativity through music, but dance as well, and this collective of creative musicians have indeed manifested a track here that speaks for a multitude of cultural flavours around the world, which should if there is any justice, create a huge hit for Kluane Takhini and the single We're In this Together.