The genius of a symbiotic partnership is sometimes sublime and always something to treasure, as much can be said for this new single by New Latitude (Dave Erikson and Jim Carr) entitled Softer than Silence, this is fluency at its very best, and one can see the inspiration from the acoustic pairing, of an icy start, to a new year of snow in a sparkling pine forest, we have both here and it is indeed beautiful.

This symbiotic creation on acoustic guitars is so deeply attractive and utterly artistic with every note played. I for one cannot wait to spin it again, as I hope you will too, here is a song that is packed with beauty and positivity and that can't be a bad thing, can it?
