There are times in your life when you come across the sweetest piece of music, and your entire being responds in a moment of absolute reverie and bliss. That moment is now, and the composition of great quality that has brought about the change is Ultraviolet from Vicente Avella.

The performance is idyllic and incredibly smooth, there is a real warmth here that needs to be embraced, I also felt that this musical journey was one that could possibly be described as being cathartic in nature too.

Simply put, there is everything to love about this new solo piano single Ultraviolet from Vicente Avella, and as such I see a big hit on the horizon for it.
