This latest single by Shambhu is like a ray of sunshine breaking in through an early morning window in spring. I have not heard a warmer performance this year, and the acoustic guitar of the artist is that musical embrace that just completes the day, and soothes the mind from its constant chatter.

Shambhu and Heart Awakening is one of the most delightfully comforting moments from the acoustic genre you could ever wish for, its slow and caring progression is like a musical panacea to cure all daily woes, and this composition sits on the edge of being a huge chart hit because of its outright friendly and loving connection to each of our open hearts.
