Al Jewer & Andy Mitran are back, and they have aligned themselves with the talent and skill set of Hans Christian on this brand new single entitled Amethyst.

It's good to see this pairing back on the recording scene and embracing the singles culture with this sparkling new offering. There is so much here to adore, the essences of a fine new age composition are created with beautiful flutes, keyboards and percussion.

Amethyst as a song is a fine example to hold up as truly excellent contemporary instrumental music, its tones drifted around my room with utter freedom this morning, the compositional structures and artistic endeavours here should reveal a big chart position for the artists.
