There is a magical feeling that comes from the latest single to come our way from Rick Sparks; it is the piece Twilight Dreams from his album Bella.

The arrangement has a slight Celtic touch to it, but the main feeling that comes from this composition is one of a magical realm, where you can feel safe and protected at all times, like an angel watching over you whilst you sleep.

This is a beautiful serene composition that is so delightful to swim within, and one that I could listen to on repeat for hours without getting bored.

Hats off to Rick Sparks on this wonderful release, I am sure it will be received well by his fans and others alike.
