This is a little moment of vocal magic from new singer Catlea, her single Breathe Away has hit the airwaves and this performance is perfectly timed and sung.

This piece has been constructed with much thought and performed with a heck of a lot of soul and feeling, the attention to detail in her work here is illuminating, and the music production that follows her lead is sublimely created.

I have that certain feeling that a hit song may well be on the cards here for Catlea, and perhaps this young woman is a singer to watch as that limelight crawls relentlessly across the stage of time. Unique, original and exciting, this one is going to go a long way.
