

All About That Time

By

John Fluker

Written by

Steve Sheppard

The clock is certainly ticking now on the latest offering by John Fluker entitled All About That Time. Fluker has to be one of the most experienced and classy pianists around today, and this new single is a fine example of his sublime genius.

The smooth yet sparkling performance by Fluker is simply radiant and at times quite funky; this jazzy arrangement is exactly what is needed in the genre right now, something light, and something exciting, and definitely passionately rhythmic.

There can be no doubting Fluker's skill set and his classy ability to light up the room with each and every composition he creates, a sure fire hit indeed without a shadow of a doubt.