

An Ocean of Dreams

By

Annie Locke

Written by

Steve Sheppard

This single comes at a really good time for me, I returned from a beautiful sea trip just the other day, and its images are still within my mind's eye and even more so now that I sit here listening to this quite beautiful new single by Annie Locke, entitled An Ocean of Dreams.

Her performances over the last few months have been getting beautifully ambient and incredibly fluent, and this one is a fine example of that statement. Here is a composition that will sit with a friendly arm around your shoulder for its duration, it is as if you are floating on a lapis ocean with this being used as the soundtrack for the event, you really don't get much better than this, and Oceans of Dreams is picturesque and simply stunning with every note played.