

The Castle

By

Karen Biehl

Written by

Steve Sheppard

This wonderfully exciting electronic cinematic offering from Karen Biehl is enough to have you on the end of your seat musically speaking. The former number 1 artist perhaps better known for her solo piano work, has pulled off something of a musical coup here, and just in time for Halloween as well.

Fluent and dramatic at all times and one must add thoroughly entertaining too. Biehl's stylish keyboards manifest with a great deal of talent, a spooky castle that stands upon a lonely mist covered hill at night, now with care if you look to the left of the ramparts, one may indeed see the figure of a man change into that of a bat, a child of the night perhaps?

An absolutely fun moment of music here from the former chart topping artist, one that I am sure is going to be very well received by her fans and listeners alike, as they listen to her opus of the night, ah, what sweet music she makes!