I had been eager to see Wayne Bethanis produce this new single entitled Tribes of the City, it's multi instrumental nature for me is a total winner, but this is much more than that, I believe he has produced through this composition, his most commercial offering to date, and one that I truly believe will be a sure fire winner on the charts.

The full flowing nature of this new single is undeniable and totally listenable and very redolent of the subject matter; major and minor like I haven't heard for ages and a constant sense of a never ending sensation of movement, until the clever ending brassy conclusion, a brilliantly thought-out piece of work indeed from the artist.
