No one will be surprised to hear that Rick Sparks has created a truly ethereal and smooth version of What Child Is This for the holiday season; Sparks is on a roll and has had a phenomenal year with his releases.

On this arrangement he has managed to not only manifest something so very listenable, he has now created a virtual soundtrack of a well-known piece that is hauntingly beautiful with every note played.

His keyboards have that gentleness behind their intent that has truly laid a path of love and kindness and of comfort and peace through its vibes. Sparks should be pleased with this final musical instalment of 2019; he can leave the year fully in the knowledge that he has created something quite outstanding to leave it with, a truly angelic and memorable arrangement indeed.
