From his personal favourites release comes is an offering entitled Crystal Tears by Claudio Casanueva, this happens to be one of my all-time personal favourite selections from the artist, the natural bird and nature sounds resonate perfectly with the synths and keyboards, and bring to our ears a wonderful new landscape to travel; a completely new musical dimension is created by Casanueva here.

The compositional structure of this track is wonderfully fluent and there is a multi-instrumental genre crossing energy about this piece that is fascinating too, which leaves me in no doubt that this is one composition that is so addictive, you will find yourselves wishing, many times over to immerse yourself within its carefully crafted ambience.
