I first came into contact with the proud Cherokee Nation between the years of 2005 to 2010; I spent 5 years in Oklahoma and learned much from their ways and teachings, so it is with absolute glee that I get to review the latest single by Wayne Bethanis, featuring the simply awesome Marcus Sjöwall on flute and entitled Return Of The Cherokee.

Bethanis is on an absolute roll musically at the moment, and is now being touted of as one of the most productive, prolific and successful pianists of his time. This new offering is simply a wild ride of fluent vibrant piano, with a deeply spiritual and masterful performance on flute, one that seems to wend its way through the forests of tone with such confidence and with such a powerful sense of passion as well.

This has therefore once again, created another amazingly addictive release for the artist, one that is going to be another sure fire winner without a shadow of a doubt.
