

The Song Of The Wind

By

Oscar Pascasio

Written by

Steve Sheppard

The whispering nature of the wind has and always will be a mystically exciting subject matter to explore musically, and when you have a pianist like Oscar Pascasio performing, that makes it doubly exciting and enticing. Pascasio is a painter of tone and sound, and on this brand new single The Song Of The Wind he not only manifests something so memorable and charming, his skill set brings to the performance something deeply moving as well.

This is a class arrangement, sometimes so imploring in its narrative and at other times so touching. The textures created by Pascasio makes this single one of those pieces that you will find your self whistling all day long, but you won't even remember doing so, a beautifully reflective opus and a totally classy single indeed, full marks Oscar Pascasio.