It is a rare thing that when listening to a single track I hear in my head the word, "OH my goodness"! This mental exclamation of a happy surprise musically, came whilst listening to the opening refrains from the latest Melany Thompson single On My Mind.

The reflective, yet empowering beginning to this offering really struck me hard emotionally, the mixture of major and minor was so very enticing and meaningful, so much so that I have now listened to this single several times, a real testament to a composition that has such character, class and style built into its weave.

This one has to be a sure fire hit for the artist, a single that I am more than happy to recommend and one that happens to be the best near on three minutes I have spent musically for quite sometime.
